Hospital Expansion Drive Exceeds $1,000,000 Goal

MONROE County General Hospital's Expansion Campaign last night triumphantly passed its one million dollar goal, and, as announcements of memorial gifts mounted, its jubilant chairman, Arlington W. Williams turned over a total of $1,145,508 at the Victory Dinner.

"I pass on to you not only the money," Williams said to Jerry Stofflet, president of the board of trustees, "but the cup of neighborliness from a community which has answered 'yes' to the question 'Am I my brother's keeper?' Our cup runneth over."

Four memorial gifts announced in dramatic sequence put Monroe County's first million dollar campaign over the top. Tension had been mounting among the 375 workers present for the dinner in the dining room at East Stroudsburg State College, as the total edged upward with each division's report. It reached a total of $945,508. And stopped.

Then Williams announced the

Pro-Communist Battalions Now Below Cease-Fire Line

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Pro-Communist battalions have completed the occupation of northwest Laos in a surging advance that carried them more than 100 miles beyond the cease-fire line to the border of pro-Western Thailand.

Battered royal Laotian troops Friday were reported fleeing across the Mekong River into Thailand after abandoning Houei Sai, last government outpost in the northwest.

Fear Expressed

The royal government expressed fear the Pathet Lao rebels were ready to follow up their push to the Thai border with a general offensive against the royal capital of Luang Prabang in the heart of Laos and on the administrative capital of Vientiane in the south.

The Defense Ministry said that three to five Soviet-made transports have been unloading men and war materiel daily at two

Tired And Disillusioned

Johnson Family Home From Russia

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Tired and disillusioned, David Johnson and his family came home Friday from a 10-day visit to the Soviet Union, which Johnson said he found "no utopia—far from it."

The Johnsons had an uneventful trip by automobile from Logan International Airport in Boston, where they landed after a shuttle trip from New York where their overseas plane landed from London.

Tired And Numb

"They are very tired," Mrs. Johnson's sister, Frances, said. "We are all kind of numb, I guess."

She said the Johnsons planned to sleep after supper. Johnson, 32, a former Philadelphia railroad worker said he went to the Soviet Union "for one thousand and one reasons, and as it turns out, all were incorrect—tragically."

He said he also had "one thousand and one reasons for coming home, but it would take a Britannica (encyclopedia) to describe it."

Johnson flew to New York from London with his family and came by air to Boston where he and his family were met by Mrs. Johnson's mother and sister. They drove the Johnsons and their twin sons, Cole and Lindsey, 4, by automobile to Manchester, N.H.

Johnson and his wife sold all their possessions, and he quit his job as a $112-a-week Pennsylvania Railroad timekeeper to go to the U.S.S.R., to stay.

They boarded a Soviet ship in London April 23 for Leningrad, but by last Monday they were back in London, reporting disillusion.

Johnson said for one thing he had hoped to get hospital care for one of the children ailing with a heart condition.

But he said a look at one hospital changed his mind on that score. "It was unsanitary, obviously dirty," he said.

As for the average working man in the Soviet Union "Why, he's not making a decent week's pay. He is not eating well; if he is, he is paying dearly for it. He is poorly housed," he said.

Johnson said he never has been a member of the Communist party, but he said in New York he had supported Communist causes for the last 10 years or so.

He said anyone in this country with the same inclination ought to go to the U.S.S.R. as he did and look around and see what is there.

It only takes 10 minutes in the country to see that the Soviet Union "is an evil, bad thing," he said.

Johnson said over-all the trip was worth the trouble.

BACK FROM RUSSIA—David Paul Johnson, 32, who found Russia did not offer the better life he sought, arrives at New York's Idlewild Airport with his family after a flight from London. With Johnson, former Philadelphia railroad worker, are his wife, Joanne, and their twin sons, Cole and Lindsey, 4. Johnson and the family spent about a week in Russia before discovering that the Soviet Union is "an evil bad thing," he told newsmen on his arrival. (AP Wirephoto)

Snyder-Unangst Case Is Bound Over For Court

By DON ALLEN
Daily Record Reporter

CHARGES of criminal libel against Parke W. Unangst, Monroe County Republican chairman, will be aired in court as the result of a preliminary hearing yesterday before Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg justice of the peace.

Kellogg ruled against a motion to dismiss the charge made by Walter Olenick, Stroudsburg attorney, who represented Unangst. The charge was brought by Gerald A. Snyder, Republican candidate for nomination as representative to the General Assembly.

Kellogg continued Unangst under $500 bail pending court action. The justice of the peace, in denying Olenick's motion for dismissal, ruled that a prima facie case had been established in testimony of two witnesses that Unangst showed them a two-page typewritten letter which referred to Snyder.

Conflicting testimony Kellogg also cited conflicting testimony by Forrest Graves, 1004 Main St., Stroudsburg, and Clyde Learn, East Stroudsburg, RD 2, in referring the case to court.

Graves testified that to the best of his knowledge he never had a copy of the letter in his possession and said he had only read the first three or four lines of the first paragraph. He also said that to the best of his knowledge he never showed it to anyone.

Learn said he first saw a copy of the letter in the general store and gas station he operates and that it was shown to him by Graves.

Over Olenick's objection of hearsay evidence, Kellogg permitted Learn to testify to what Graves said to him on the occasion.

Learn said that Graves said,

"Would you like to read this? It's quite a letter isn't it?"

Witnesses Called

In addition to Graves and Learn, three other witnesses were called by Snyder, who was not represented by an attorney. They were Frank K. Eilenberger, 259 Smith St., East Stroudsburg; Samuel H. Saunders, 1535 Spruce St., Stroudsburg, and Carl F. Meissner, 512 Fulmer Ave., Stroudsburg.

Eilenberger testified that he went into the drug store Unangst operates to ask whether the county GOP organization was backing Snyder or Clifford F. Heller of Stroudsburg, the other candidate for the nomination.

He said Unangst did not immediately answer him, but took him behind the counter and showed him a copy of the letter which is the basis of the libel action.

Eilenberger testified that after showing him the letter, Unangst told him the organization was backing Heller. Eilenberger said he later discussed the letter with another Republican, who was not identified, and returned to the store and asked Unangst for a copy of it.

He said that Unangst gave him one, but that he did not circulate it.

Saunders said he first saw the letter in Unangst's store shortly after a meeting of the county executive committee at which there was an altercation between Snyder and Unangst.

Williams of Mississippi and Zeller, a Georgia resident, pleaded guilty in an earlier arraignment. Sims has not yet been brought into federal court. They are charged with taking $8,639 during the holdup of the rural branch bank.

Steelmaker Blough Says

Tax Writeoff Is Step In The Right Direction

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Steelmaker Roger M. Blough said Friday the Kennedy administration's reform of industry's tax writeoffs is a very important step toward restoration of business confidence and betterment of government-business relations.

Blough, who as chairman of U.S. Steel Corp. was President Kennedy's chief antagonist in the steel price controversy a month ago, spoke as chairman of the Business Council—the top-running organization of big businesses.

Blough's conciliatory words came after a Treasury Department spokesman told the council that a significant liberalization of the tax writeoffs will be issued late next month or in July.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler told reporters after a closed session with the industrialists that the depreciation charge could mean as much as $1.25 billion in tax savings to all businesses for this year. The investment tax credit pending in Congress could, if enacted, bring another $1.4 billion in benefits, Fowler said.

Report Well Received

Blough said Fowler's report was very well received by the 100 corporation chiefs holding their spring meeting here.

Further evidence of improved relations between Big Steel and the White House came with an announcement by Blough that Kennedy has asked the council, through Blough, to organize a committee to assist the government in dealing with the balance-of-payments deficit.

Corporation chiefs from five industries—auto, farm machinery, home appliances, construction, and shipping—presented brief reports of the business outlook in their industries at the closed meeting, and Blough said all were favorable.

But G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said the stock market is in a desperately tragic situation. The market has been declining for four months and has skidded badly in the past week.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon sent word to the spring meeting of the Business Council, an organization of major industrialists, that work on the liberalized new writeoffs is in its final stages.

He said the new rules will be ordered into effect within the next two months, and will apply to the current tax year.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, who read Dillon's prepared speech at the opening session of the Business Council, said the simplified new depreciation rules will be meaningful to American industry and to the entire American economy.

Secret Witnesses To Appear To Decipher Estes Books

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators were reported Friday to have discovered secret witnesses who may decipher entries in the cash books of Billie Sol Estes showing a $235,000 payoff to a mysterious "Washington project."

An informed source, who refused to be quoted by name, said the Senate investigating subcommittee has found some former employees willing to talk about the indicted West Texas financier's finances but did not identify them by name.

Empire Has Crumbled

The 37-year-old Estes' financial empire has crumbled in recent months. He already is under indictment for fraud and currently is under investigation by four grand juries in Texas and by two congressional committees.

A Texas court of inquiry has turned up evidence that Estes profited hugely on government grain storage, manipulation of cotton acreage allotments, fertilizer sales and other aspects of the farm program.

Seven Women Shot Walking The Street

ALGIERS (AP)—France's top official in Algeria launched a new crackdown on the European Secret Army Friday but terrorist gunmen continued blazing away at Moslems.

Despite the roundup of some of the busiest secret army killers, 13 or more Moslems—including 7 women—had been shot dead on Algiers' streets by nightfall. Fourteen persons had been wounded.

Four Europeans—three of them youths in their early 20s—disappeared, apparently kidnapped by Moslems.

In addition, a Jewish merchant was shot dead by Moslems who raced through the European workers' quarter of Abah El Oued

In a car, firing guns out the windows.

Angry Tones
In angry tones, French High Commissioner Christian Fouchet broadened crackdown measures, announced the capture of two secret army commando units, and said up to 1,500 plainclothesmen recruited from Moslem rebel army ranks and armed with shoot-to-kill orders soon will be roaming Algiers.

One captured eight-man commando band, including the chief of secret army commandos in central Algiers, admitted more than 200 attacks and the booby-trapping of an automobile. Fouchet said. The gang also was responsible for machine-gunning and bombing two groups of police and a villa housing "barbouzes" (the bearded ones), a special plainclothes force, he said.

Another band of 18, including a Moslem, was rounded up at Bouaria, 100 miles east of Algiers, he announced.

One of Friday's attacks was on the same downtown street where police hauled in every male over 18 years of age for questioning Thursday. Two Moslems in a truck were wounded by machine gun bullets.

Mob Action
The shooting set off a mob action of 200 Moslems who swooped out of their Casbah quarter, beat up one European badly and sent others fleeing in terror.

In another incident a police ambulance carrying two secret army prisoners was fired upon. The prisoners were liberated and a policeman wounded.

The secret army, which is fighting to prevent Algerian independence, is gambling that it can undermine Gen. Charles de Gaulle's cease-fire with Algerian nationalists by provoking the Moslems into bloody retaliation.

Fouchet, from his barricaded headquarters at Rocher Noir outside Algiers, announced a string of arrests and deportations and orders to beef up police forces following the slaying Thursday of 55 persons, nearly all of them Moslems.

He said he was seeking authority to draft European youths of 19 and over into military service. Youths are responsible for a huge share of the terrorist attacks.

West End Bank Robbers Arraigned

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Two men accused of participating in the armed holdup of the West End Branch of the Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co., Brodheadsville, last Oct. 20 pleaded innocent when arraigned Friday before federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan.

The pleas were entered by Robert Hall Jr., and Vandy Hall, both of Alabama. They have been in custody since February along with Joe Lee Sims, who is in Luzerne County prison, and Everett Williams Jr., and Otis Zellner Jr.

Williams of Mississippi and Zeller, a Georgia resident, pleaded guilty in an earlier arraignment. Sims has not yet been brought into federal court. They are charged with taking $8,639 during the holdup of the rural branch bank.

Officials indicated the troubles, which cropped up Thursday, were minor, but required two days to correct and check out.

Previous difficulty with the Atlas booster had slipped the scheduled launching date from May 15 to May 17.

NASA also announced its press office for the flight would open in nearby Cocoa Beach on May 15. The problem was in the capsule's complex automatic attitude control system. The system acted up on the orbit journeys of both Enos the chimpanzee and astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. Enos' flight had to be terminated after two instead of three orbits because of the trouble, but Glenn was able to manually override the problem in his capsule.

The difficulty on Carpenter's spacecraft apparently is of a different nature than the troubles which plagued the previous two flights.

Any lengthy delay of Carpenter's flight would put it in conflict with a series of high-altitude nuclear tests planned by the United States in the Pacific in June and July.

Project Mercury officials do not want to subject the astronaut to radiation created by these blasts. If his flight date does slip into this period, it probably would be postponed until August.

Today's Lesson:

Suffering For Christ

By N. Speer Jones

AGAIN this week our letter of "faith, counsel and courage" is the so-called First Epistle of Peter, and it draws much of its inspiration from Peter's own early experiences.

The experience cited in our lesson probably occurred in 44 A. D., 14 years after Christ's resurrection. At that time the ruler in Judea was Herod Agrippa I. He was a grandson of Herod the Great, infamous in Biblical history for his massacre of the babes of Bethlehem. Herod Agrippa I was the son of Aristobulus, and the nephew of Herod Antipas (son of Herod the Great), who put to death John the Baptist for his criticism of his marriage to Herodias, wife of his half-brother.

Herod Agrippa was brought up in Rome in extravagance until his debts forced his return to his homeland, Idumea, or Edom, a country south of Palestine. Through his friendship with the Emperor Caligula he enlarged his domains to include those of his uncle, who had been exiled, and when Claudius ascended the throne in 41, his reign extended over all the lands of Herod the Great.

His deference to Judaism made the Herods very popular among the Jews. It was to court their favor that Herod Agrippa I persecuted the Christians, beheading the apostle James and imprisoning Peter with the intent to kill him, also (Acts 12:1-5).

Herod's was not the first persecution, of course; there was that of Sadducees and chief priests studied last week, that incited by the Hellenists (see Acts 7:1-60) and that of Saul of Tarsus, before his conversion. There were to be many more in the succeeding centuries, though their severity was not so great, according to modern historians, as earlier writers would lead us to believe. There is always the question as to why James, one of Christ's closest and most honored followers, should be executed and Peter delivered by God. The answer, of course, lies with God, but we may be sure that it best served His purpose this way. Perhaps both a martyrdom and an organizing were needed at the time to keep the church alive, and God chose the men best-suited to these different tasks.

Both, of course, suffered for Christ's sake, each in his own way. Much of our assigned material deals with encouragement to those Christians who suffer for Christ's sake (I Peter 12:19). Suffering is a purification, we are reminded; rarely it embitters, but more often it perfects and sweetens character.

There is a wealth of material in this letter of Peter's, including his exhortations in view of special privileges (1:13 — 2:10), special relations (2:11 — 4:11) and special trials (4:12 — 5:11).

Vacations Leave Church With Small Congregation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Associated Press Religion Writer
The modern religious exodus gets under way shortly.

With the coming of the vacation season, many families take to the road, the shore or the summer house, leaving their home places of worship to get by without them.

And sometimes, it's a struggle. The vacant pews, the sagging program, the thinning collections—all these often combine to produce a slump, if not a standstill, in church operations.

Some churches simply shut down during the worst part of the doldrums.

"The sad truth is that the vacation habit, plus the habit of making weekend trips throughout the summer, has worked practically to paralyze the church of God for several months of the year," says Dr. A. W. Tozer.

Dr. Tozer is a pungent, frank-speaking spokesman of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, a small but vigorous Protestant denomination of about 70,000 members in 1,100 American congregations.

As editor of the denomination's biweekly publication, the Alliance Witness, Dr. Tozer, also a Toronto, Ont., pastor, is noted for his pithy jabs at church weaknesses.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance, whose publication Dr. Tozer has guided for 12 years, stemmed from Presbyterianism in the late 1800's as an independent evangelistic movement, strictly Bible-centered.

Altogether, the movement maintains 860 missionaries in 23 areas abroad, plus more than 3,000 indigenous workers, with a current pleted their part, the Exalted Amster takes the one remaining red carnation and places it on the memory of all deceased mothers. This is but one of many ceremonies honoring mothers on Mother's Day.

Mother's Day is not something new. Honoring mothers is derived from a custom of mother-worship in ancient Greece.

The formal mother-worship, with ceremonies to Cybele, or Rhea, the "Great Mother of Gods", were performed on the Ides of March throughout Asia Minor.

With the coming of Christianity this developed into the worship of "Mother Church," the celebration occurring on a Sunday in mid-Lent, when children returned home with gifts for parents, especially the mother.

In the United States Mother's Day was given official recognition by an act of Congress, May 8, 1914. The second Sunday in May was designated the national day "for public expression of our love and reverence for the mothers."

The white carnation, signifying sweetness, purity and endurance was adopted as the floral emblem.

N'fld Bank Robber Slated To Get Freedom Tuesday

NEWFOUNDLAND — Salvatore W. Pantano, sentenced to nine years in prison for the robbery of the First National Bank of Newfoundland and for assaulting its cashier, C. Allen Edwards, will leave Lewisburg Penitentiary on Tuesday having served a little more than three years of his term.

The U.S. Parole Board acted favorably on his request for release from prison where he has been confined since February 12, 1959.

Pantano was found guilty by a federal jury in Honesdale in December, 1958, of the armed robbery on August 21, 1958, which netted him $1,681.

The Dunmore resident vigorously denied any part in the bank holdup, and was tried and convicted on a two-count indictment which charged him with taking by intimidation from the presence of C. Allen Edwards, cashier, the sum of $1,681.99 in bank funds.

He was also charged and convicted of assault and placing in jeopardy the life of Edwards "by the use of a dangerous weapon, to wit, a .38 Colt revolver."

In addition to his mother he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lois Fanseen Vathis, at home; three sisters, Mrs. Pauline Bradford, Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Georgia Kravitz, Tiburon, Calif.; and Miss Patricia Vathis, Los Angeles, Calif.; four brothers, Thomas, Jim Thorpe; James, Philadelphia; Paul, Harrisburg, and William, serving with the U.S. Marine Corps in Madrid, Spain.

Thoughts On A Community

A community—any community—is a living, thriving entity. It is never a dead issue. If it ceases to be living and thriving by its own volition, it will cease to exist.

This thought came to our mind the other evening on a jaunt around the area. At the moment, there were many things on our mind, but, as we passed by, we noted the lighted cross atop East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, and we were reminded of the many gifts with which we, as humans, are blessed. The gift of Faith is indeed a treasured one.

As we wandered along, we watched youngsters playing in a school yard, and we were reminded of the eternal panacea of Hope. As we watched the ball speed from one end of the field to the other, we gave thought to tomorrow, raised our eyes—and gave thanks for the gift of Hope.

Still later, we heard the sleek ambulance screech by, whether to or from its errand of mercy—we did not know. But we did know someone needed help—and was getting it. And we were reminded of the gift of Charity. The thought of compassion for a neighbor seemed suddenly to overwhelm us and the words drifted through . . . "And the greatest of these is Charity."

Berlin: Back To A Standoff

The Communists have again given evidence that if they cannot have all of Berlin they are not much interested in compromises.

When it suits their purpose or they meet major resistance, they can urge a relaxation of tensions. But this does not mean they wish to make life any more livable for West Berliners or to define any rights which might interfere with a takeover of the free sectors of the city.

Walter Ulbricht, Communist boss of East Germany, has not only rejected, with Soviet support, the American proposal of an international authority over access to West Berlin but now revives demands that West Berlin become a "demilitarized free city" — meaning that it be deprived of the protection of Western garrisons.

This probably closes a cycle which may be taken as having begun when Soviet Premier Khrushchev last year, after a meeting with United States President Kennedy at Vienna, renewed his threat of 1958 to sign a treaty that would pretend to give the East German

The whole series of thoughts were recalled last night when it was announced that the fund drive for the proposed expansion of the Monroe County General Hospital reached its goal with plenty of room to spare. The extra money will be needed, because the initial planning was pared to the bone in the hope of achieving a goal.

Suddenly, we were proud of our community, which had achieved such a tremendous goal. There were some who, iconoclastic-like, had said "It can't be done." But . . . it was. We were proud of those who had worked so hard to achieve the goal, but mainly we were proud of those who had made it possible—the men and women of the area who had contributed the cold cash, the Good Samaritans, who wanted to help their neighbor in need, willingly, graciously, and even sometimes anonymously.

Then, like the swelling of a great organ seeking the seemingly lost chord, the harmony and beauty of the community seemed to thunder out the jubilant words . . . "And the greatest of these is Charity."

We compliment the community on its achievement in oversubscribing the Hospital Expansion Fund. It is an achievement of which all can be proud.

A 'Few Words' On Coaches

Editor, The Daily Record: This letter, my second on the subject in the past three weeks, is being written as an answer to Reg Nauman, who is upholding the dismissal of Doug Schoonover as basketball coach at East Stroudsburg High School, a move that I believe to be a mistake.

Before entering into a list of answers for Reg, I wish to point out to the people of East Stroudsburg that they don't owe me a single thanks, as Nauman so kindly passed my way in his letter. Whatever work I did with the East Stroudsburg athletic program I enjoyed and would do over again. My parts in any successful East Stroudsburg athletic ventures are extremely small and can't be measured against the work of many others, including the tireless Reg Nauman.

It was my pleasure to work closely with Reg while raising money for the lighting system at Memorial Stadium. It was an experience I would never want to miss. I was certainly my pleasure.

However, I am in disagreement with Reg at this time, and like he mentioned in his letter, I hope this disagreement will never damage our friendship that has been built over the years.

I waited 10 days after Reg's letter appeared in The Daily Record, hoping that he would fill in the blank spaces that were so obvious in his letter.

For a starter, I wish to point out that Ray Stengel wasn't fired as football coach at East Stroudsburg and thus bleeding hearts were not in order. Ray resigned to accept a similar position at Sharon Hill, near Philadelphia, where he was very successful.

I am in complete agreement with Nauman in his belief that an "English teacher should teach our youth correct usage of our language, a math teacher the necessary knowledge of a pure science, a basketball coach a knowledge of the game, all other things being equal, a reasonable chance of winning the game and above all else expect all three to teach our youth discipline and respect for order and the general welfare, and in turn to show the same respect for the youths they are teaching."

I know that Pocono Mountains Jointure lost only five of 20 regular season basketball games last season and came within a whisker of winning the District 11 class "A" crown, after being named the best team in the Poconos. However, one of the five teams to defeat Pocono Mountains was East Stroudsburg. Thus, it appears with all things equal, East Stroudsburg has an equal chance to win last basketball season.

Reg explained he feels that for the first time in a number of years the athletic committee is showing some real interest in improving overall athletic climate. If this be true, why was a basketball coach allowed to serve as an assistant football coach.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Recommends The 'Great Physician'

Editor, The Daily Record: There seems to be a great deal of marriage difficulty and those concerned generally rush to the nearest physician or psychiatrist. I wonder how many are referred to their clergyman for the opinion of the Great Physician?

Recently a course for engaged couples was formed by a local group — what about a similar service for those who have been married for many years — possibly a "continuing" program that would be publicized as much?

Surely if each married person would fully understand his own responsibility as directed in Proverbs 5, 6, 7 and 31 and Ephesians 5, there should be no difficulty that couldn't be settled without psychiatric aid, which encourages a patient to understand himself.

One Who Knows.

Recalls Stillwater Swamp

Editor, The Daily Record: With reference to article by Peggy Hancock in May 3 issue of the Record regarding the legend of the disappearing cannon, I am very familiar with Stillwater Swamp.

My parents owned the farm within one mile of the swamp and I spent quite a lot of time fishing in a small body of water at Stillwater Swamp. The first time I went there I was with Mr. Robert Hafler, long deceased.

I was about sixteen then, almost fifty years ago and in order to reach the edge of water you had to feel your way as everything around you felt like jello, because one misstep and you went down even though vegetation grew there. We took 25 feet long and stuck in this muck and never touched bottom. Our trips there were often as trout were in abundance.

The Other Side Of The Fence

Editor, The Daily Record: I didn't like page 9 of Tuesday's Record. I think what they say in the ad is a lot of hokum and I think they would have a hard time proving all of their statements.

Regardless of old or new labels, it is the same beer and the same stuff people drink and then drive. An example: the woman charged with drunken driving, the article on page 3 of Tuesday's Record, I also note your article on accidents.

Advertising gets more people to drink and people will continue to drive even if they have been drinking and know they should not drive.

Go by the beer joints at night and see the cars lined up and they are all gone in the morning. We know the most of them ficulty that couldn't be settled without psychiatric aid, which encourages a patient to understand himself.

Might it not be better to have him spend this time learning to accept his situation and keep trying to fulfill his own job as the Lord expects of him? It would bring a true inner contentment, and eventual solution.

The Bible is certainly the most easily available, inexpensive, most lasting and best of all tranquilizers.

Plan For Mother's Day

Editor, The Daily Record: Would you please print in the Record this week: "I Am Resolved," for mother and father by Esther W. Turner. This week before Mother's Day is family week. I feel this article is truly the resolutions every family should make and use. Thank you.

Dorothy E. Albert

I Am Resolved

As a Mother:

1. To make this coming year count in the development of my own spiritual life and that of my family, even though I realize there will be plenty to hinder me, "My sufficiency is of Him."

Comment. Resolutions are short-lived as a rule, so this family week let every mother who determines within herself to feed daily on the "hidden mamma" is bound to show marked deepening of her inner life.

2. To take this task seriously, to give time to planning for it and carrying it out, also to checking up on myself so that one day may build on another.

Comment. Without doing this, mother, it is useless to begin. To take time every day to analyze one's actions and thoughts even though done hurriedly, occasionally, is the way to success.

3. To read my bible once a day at least, twice or three times if possible until I get a message for myself. In some cases this may mean only one verse; in others, many more. But I am determined to read thoughtfully.

Comment. By doing this you will find your other resolutions simplified. The key that unlocks the door to a "closer walk with God" is Bible reading and prayer.

4. To spend more time in prayer, expecting results therefrom. My prayer life must be inspirational and edifying, not mere routine.

Comment. The average Christian does not draw on his prayer resources. The one who has learned to obey the command "Pray without ceasing" (a calling on God to meet every need) has a powerful weapon always at hand.

5. To cultivate the habit of "giving thanks in all things" and of "praising Him at all times." I began doing this last year and found there was no time for grouches, self-pity and fear.

Comment. A wonderful secret for any Christian to learn. That little word "all" leaves no room for Satan to take advantage. Those who have tried it know it works.

6. To be more careful to maintain a Christian atmosphere in the home. This means I must watch the literature that comes in, the TV programs, table conversations, conduct one toward another, unkindly comments and gossip.

Comment. This seems to be peculiarly the mother's job. Yet family co-operation is essential in carrying it out.

7. Not to become discouraged if I do not attain these resolutions all at once. They are all good and should be carried out. With God's help (and I can be sure of that) I should be in good running order before many months pass, which means that our home life will be more pleasing to our Lord whose approval we covet.

Comment. These seven simple determinations on the part of any mother of a family faithfully acted upon will bring heaven much closer to this earth and set the "joy-bells" ringing above.

As a Father:

1. To back up mother in her splendid plans for the family, do my share, and not make excuses and alibis.

Comment. If more fathers would do this, it would not only lighten the task for the mother, but have a decided influence on the children both present and future.

2. To take time for my own

Throws Bouquets

Editor, The Daily Record:

Spring has arrived with beautiful flowers budding everywhere, so please allow me to throw a few bouquets where they are rightfully belong.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation for the doctors, nurses, aides, and etc. that are affiliated with our hospital in East Stroudsburg. In my two recent stays in the hospital I found only kindness on the part of everyone.

The cheerfulness of the above mentioned was so very uplifting. We, as patients, knew that their main concern was that we should be made as comfortable as possible while there and that we would have a speedy recovery.

I, personally, have a new appreciation and admiration for all those connected with the General Hospital since I have seen how busy, yet pleasant they could be.

It is now my opinion that when most people complain, it is because often our senses of value and appreciation are lost when we are ill or in pain.

May I also add that the food served was good and attractive. So — Hats off to a wonderful group!

(Mrs. Robert Garner)

Disagrees With Policy

Editor, The Daily Record: The weekly serial nature of your "Letters to the Editor" department has disarranged my thoughts to say the least. If readers, subscribers or citizens, can only voice their opinions weekly, then why have a daily paper?

An important function of any newspaper is to permit, even encourage, their readers to voice their opinions, good or bad. It is a means whereby Mr. Average Citizen can have his ideas publicly expressed in print. Printing these letters when the event or the anomaly is antiquated, only reduces the effectiveness of this important newspaper function. The initiative, enthusiasm, purpose is lost. Citizens become discouraged; many potentially enlightening letters are never written. The pen remains at rest.

Therefore, if this paper is sincerely interested in giving its readers the proper opportunity to voice their ideas or opinions, it should print these letters at the appropriate time. And that time is not every Saturday.

George Sokolsky

What Is Necessity?

This is a paragraph of a letter from a New York lawyer:

... I believe that Kennedy has deliberately surrounded himself with Socialists, that he aims to tamper with our economic life to the detriment of the people who are losing control of their own existence, and I think that you and others, whose writings influence the public opinion and frighten candidates, should protest against the trend. . . . We older ones owe this obligation to our children and grandchildren who will be the innocent victims of Socialism after we are gone."

Why is he so frightened? He believes that we are on the verge of socialism. I have heard that outcry since I was a small child. It was heard here in New York when William Randolph Hearst ran for Mayor in 1909. It was then claimed that Hearst was a socialist who would destroy business when, as a matter of fact, he was a capitalist who was building a big business. It was said of Theodore Roosevelt when he interfered in labor-management matters, particularly in the coal strikes. It was said of Gifford Pinchot when he fought for conservation of our natural resources. It was said of Upton Sinclair when he fought against the pollution of our food. It is always said about anyone who uncovers a scandal or offers a reform.

But socialism is clearly definable: it is government ownership of the means of production and distribution and exchange. There are many kinds of socialists. For instance, George Bernard Shaw was a socialist because he believed that poverty was a sin. Beatrice and Sidney Webb, who were the heart and soul of British Fabian Socialism, would, in this country, have been called reformers and their proposals were not as radical as those of the elder LaFollette.

In this country, neither Eugene V. Debs nor Norman Thomas were socialists of the Bolshevik stripe and among Communists they would be regarded as Utopians, as dreamers for a better world without the willingness to be revolutionary to achieve it.

No President of the United States has been a socialist. Andrew Jackson was, at worst, a precursor of the Populists. Theodore Roosevelt, in retrospect, must be regarded as one who rescued American capitalism from its own excesses.

The Marxists say that capitalism contains the seeds for its own destruction. We have been fortunate in this country that whenever those seeds grew into gall-stones, some way appeared to do some major surgery without killing the patient.

The Sherman Anti-Trust Law is an example of precisely such an operation and it is often forgotten that it was the conservative William Howard Taft who did most to enforce this law.

These days one hears much in complaint of the Supreme Court, but were it not for the early decisions of Chief Justice John Marshall, it is very doubtful this nation could have survived at all, because he defined the relations between the powerful States and the weak Federal Government.

If President Washington had his Alexander Hamilton, other Presidents sought advice from those whom they trusted. There is considerable criticism these days of President Kennedy's advisors and associates. That was true in the time of President Hoover and President Franklin D. Roosevelt. When Roosevelt organized his brain-trust he was accused of surrounding himself with socialists.

Well, no one would call Raymond Moley a socialist today. Myself, I would call him a scholarly conservative. Adolf Berle is a liberal who has been effective in the fight against Communism. Felix Frankfurter, who was regarded as the worst of all, has, for years, led the conservatives among Supreme Court Justices. I recently heard Henry Wallace deliver an address which no one could possibly call socialist.

Men may differ on how to save the world but labels do not guide us to the truth. Also, anyone who, even for a short period, has the responsibility of high office, soon enough discovers the difference between campaign talk and practical operations.

The difference between the outs and the ins is that the outs may say what they please because they never need do anything about what they say; when a man is actually in office, what he says becomes an act.

For instance, had Nixon been elected instead of Kennedy, he could not have reduced the cost of experimenting with missiles and rockets and spaceships which take such a bite out of our budget.

Reg, I think you should have told the people of East Stroudsburg a little more about junior basketball plans. You explained that Schoonover didn't make the proper arrangements for holding the games.

Why wasn't the information passed on that on one occasion Schoonover, one adult and one boy were the only people present at a proposed junior basketball workout? Isn't it also a fact that one time through an error in the school office that the gymnasium was assigned to another school on the date that a junior basketball session was planned?

No, it's not wrong to try to produce the best math students, science students, English students, musicians, football players, basketball players, baseball, track, wrestlers, etc., as Reg asked. When we stop trying to do our best it's time to roll over and quit breathing. We will be waisting a lot of oxygen.

Reg mentioned the names of Jim Kindrew, Dale Metzgar, Roland Gartner, Bill Hillman, John Hindman, Don Wescott and Glen Kane as basketball players who had talent in addition to those mentioned in my earlier letter. This I agree. These boys did have some talent, but they couldn't be considered outstanding stars as those I named earlier. Reg, your talent list should have also included Alex Sydelink, as he was in the same year span.

There are several things missing in any discussion to date on these boys. I think the most important is the fact that each was developed by Doug Schoonover, and Doug Schoonover alone. Reg also forgot to mention the fact that Jim Kindrew suffered a serve cut on his hand in either his senior or junior year and the big guy, who could shoot a basketball in real fashioned, was never the same. However, I will not to Reg that Kindrew was one of the best offensive basketball players I ever saw at East Stroudsburg.

Bill Hillman is one of my favorite subjects, just as he was one of my favorite players. Bill was big and built for basketball, but the big kid had trouble with his coordination. Doug Schoonover worked tirelessly with Bill for hours, days, weeks, months and yes, even years, while many of the big names in East Stroudsburg ridiculed Schoonover for wasting his time with Hillman.

However, I believe it was in 1959 when East Stroudsburg defeated Stroudsburg, on the latter's home court, and Hillman played a big roll in the victory, despite a heavily bandaged hand. All of a sudden Hillman was a fine player, but he was self made. The coach didn't have a thing to do with it, so these same 10th row experts maintained. They also failed to notice that Roland Gartner played the finest game of his career in this game. Schoonover broke the Stroudsburg defense because he used Gartner in a driving-fading by turn offense that had the Mountaineers off balance all through the game.

I also agree with Reg when he says that a school director is supposed to be a representative of the people, and as such, must or should certainly listen to and evaluate information supplied by members of the electorate more informed in various phases of the educational system than himself. However, I have never found any better way of evaluating information than getting it first hand. I think if a school board is going to fire a coach, all information should be gained first hand—not from a variety of reports.

I also disagree with Reg when he says that a school director doesn't have to be an expert on all phases of teaching. If a director is to fill his capacity to the fullest degree, he should and must know every phase of school teaching—at least the basics.

A basketball official, who has worked many East Stroudsburg games down through the years, was surprised to hear of Nauman's report on Schoonover being a

Saunders, a member of the GOP executive committee, testified that he took a copy of the letter from Unangst because at the time he only glanced over it.

He added that he did not circulate the letter, didn't discuss it and knew that there were other copies of it only by rumor.

Meissner admitted having seen a copy of the letter but said he could not truthfully remember where he had seen it or who showed it to him or gave it to him.

In answer to questions from Snyder, Meissner said he did not receive his copy from either Unangst or Snyder.

Snyder Persisted Rev. Fullmer Is Guest Speaker

NEWFOUNDLAND — Rev. Dr. Frederick G. Fulmer, retired Moravian minister, has accepted an invitation to preach at New Dorp Beach Moravian Church, on Staten Island, New York, from May 13 through May 24, with the exception of May 20, when he will speak at the Carbondale Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Fulmer retired as minister of the Moravian Church here after many years of service, and has been speaking at the Roemer-ville Moravian Church during the past year.

He and Mrs. Fulmer returned last week from Philadelphia, where Mrs. Fulmer underwent surgery at Wills Eye Hospital.

At this point, Olenick objected to the line of questioning, saying that Snyder was attempting to impeach his own witness.

At the start of the hearing, Olenick objected to the introduction by Snyder of a photostatic copy of the unsigned letter. Kellogg over-ruled him.

When Snyder finished presenting his case, Olenick moved for dismissal, saying that nowhere in the evidence was there proof that Unangst either wrote, posted, distributed or caused to be written, posted or distributed copies of the letter.

Attorney Argued

Olenick also argued there was no testimony regarding the truth or untruth of the statements contained in the letter. Kellogg said the question of truth was not at issue. Olenick argued it was contained in the information and is a "very vital part of the charge."

Olenick also said there had been no testimony to the effect that a candidate was involved. This was rebutted by Snyder who said he had mentioned his candidacy in his opening statement. The notes of Frank Condon, court reporter, supported Snyder.

Olenick then said he had no testimony to present at the time and asked for a continuation. This was also denied by Kellogg.

Unangst attended the hearing, but took no part in the proceedings.

Snyder charged that the letter was "false and detrimental to my character and reputation" and "appeared to be circulated to defeat me as a candidate."

He said that the statements contained in the letter are untrue and that they "imply that I am guilty of violating election laws, that I am a liar and a person unworthy of the confidence of the community."

High Spots With An Alto

DRAWN together by the universal language of music, the best young voices, selected by 55 high schools in District 11, will tonight be forged into a single instrument: The Pennsylvania All-State Chorus.

Under the skilled hands of Dr. Paul Campbell of the Pennsylvania State University, they will present a public concert at 8:15 at Stroud Union High School, host school to the 145 singers. More than 14 hours of rehearsal since they arrived on Thursday have pointed them toward the big moment but there have been a host of little moments, too.

Youth itself is also a universal language and to catch its message The Daily Record Photographer followed one young alto from her arrival, a stranger in a strange land.

With Stroud Union students as porters and chauffeurs, and Stroudsburg homes warmly open to serve as hosts, she was quickly at home in the Poconos. With roommates from different towns, from different backgrounds but sharing the common bond of music, friendships blossomed.

In rehearsals, concentrated efforts alternated with high-jinks to provide common memories, climaxed with the concert which will be a common triumph.

When they leave, they will leave behind them school and with the community echoes of their young voices raised in conversation, laughter and song, and will take with them memories of one of the outstanding experiences of their high school lives.

Judy Hasbrouck of Gov. Mifflin High School, Mohnnton, was selected as the prototype of all 145 young people in the All-State Chorus. At the registration desk is Carol Arnold of Stroudsburg; with Judy in the four-poster are Maianne Hudy and Meriam McCallister of Catasauqua, and Mary Ann Puhak, of Hazleton. Sneaking the pop is Britota Spohn of Reading. In the farewell scene is Numa Snyder, Stroud Union's director, with Howard Allegar, Stroud Union, loading the bag. The director is W. Paul Campbell, Pennsylvania State University.

Secure in LOVE

Kathy is secure in her mother's love. Trust and peace gleam in her eyes. Happiness and hope shine in her face.

But Kathy has her heartaches. She falls and skins her knee. Or she loses her favorite doll. And then her eyes are flooded with tears.

Mommy is always there to help. The knee is bandaged and kissed. The dolly is found. As Mommy's arm slips around Kathy, the tears are dried.

Kathy is secure in her mother's love.

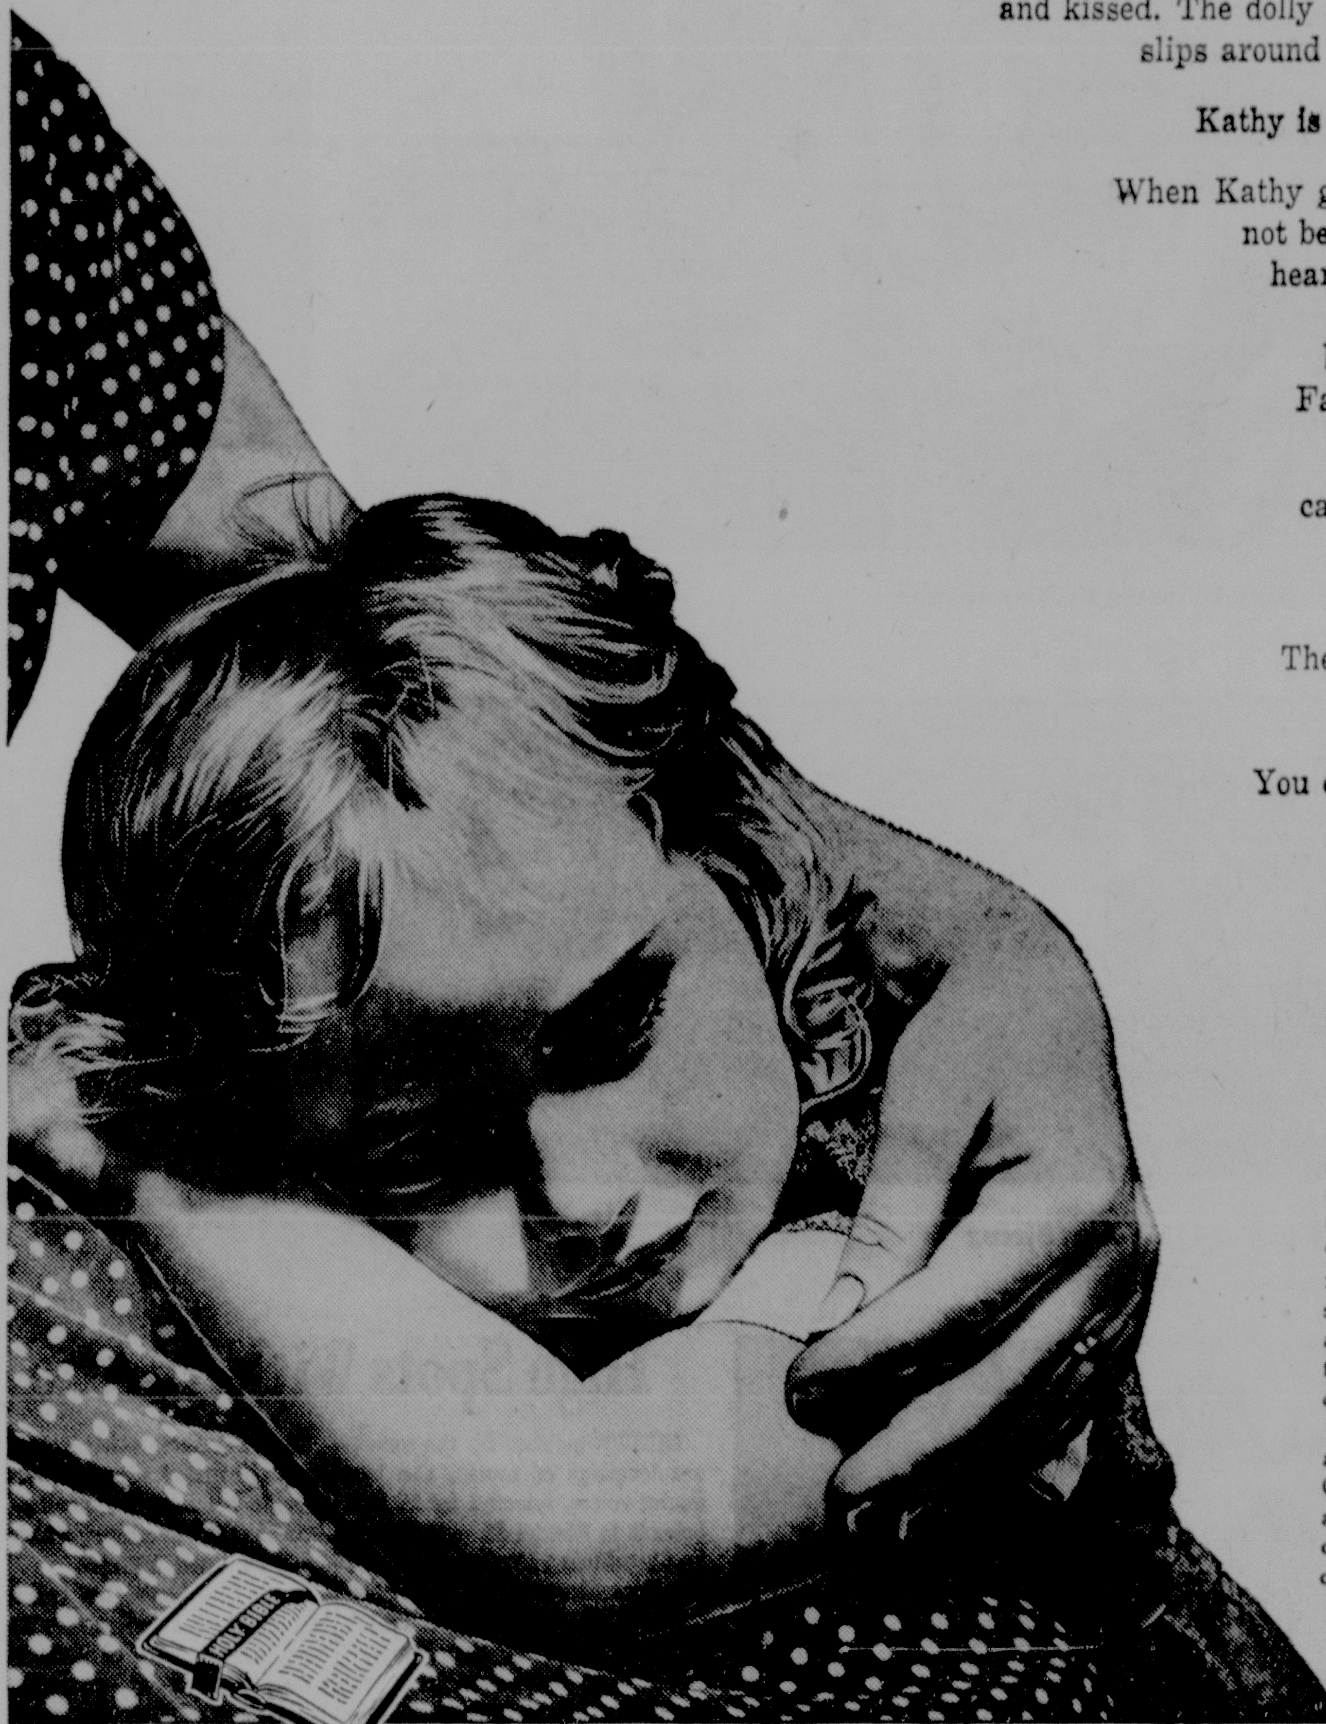

When Kathy grows older her mother will not be able to love away the adult heartaches. But Kathy can turn to God. Her mother's love is but an echo of the Heavenly Father's love for His children.

In faith and prayer, Kathy can find His all-sufficient help and feel beneath her His Everlasting Arms.

The Church guides you to God.
You can discover your destiny as His child.
You can be secure in divine love.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bangor Masons Mark Past Masters Night At Meeting

A SPECIAL program marked the observance of Past Masters Night by Bangor Lodge, No. 565, F. & A. M., in Masonic Hall, First National Bank Building, last night.

Meryl F. Repsher, worshipful master, presided. The program opened with a "festival of memory" for deceased past masters. A large wooden square, representative of a Masonic worshipful master's jewel of office, held 39 white candles. As the service of each deceased past master was recalled, these were separately extinguished. Dale H. Eden, chaplain, gave the "In Memoriam" prayer.

Repsher, assisted by John D. Hamm, Jr., senior warden; Everett J. Price, junior warden, and his staff of appointed officers, then recognized the Lodge's 34 living past masters. Those named were: Thomas W. Boyer, T. Gordon Ditchett, Everett Gent, Morgan L. Kent, Edwin W. Young, Reimer F. LaBarre, George B. Sampson, Horace F. Kinginger, Elwood Stoddard, William E. Long, Clarence H. Stout, William Fred Cann, Sherwood M. Gibbs, George F. Remagen, Wheldon Farleigh and David M. Thomas.

Also, David Stoddard, David H. Repsher, Carl F. Kressler, Warren R. Bonney, Bryden O. Strunk, Lewis R. Herd, Warren S. Kressler, Sherwood W. Luscombe, Theodore M. Hatter, Charles T. Heard, Jr., Richard E. Wells, Roy N. Henning, Edward J. Linaberry, Henry P. Williams, Russell L. Brown, Kenneth J. Rutt, Edward C. Linaberry and Carl T. Seal.

All of the past masters who attended received white carnation boutonnieres and were individually congratulated by the officers for their contributions to the fraternity. They also received a large cake decorated with a message of felicitations from the members of the Lodge.

Among those unable to participate was Thomas W. Boyer, who is celebrating his 50th anniversary as a past master. Boyer was initiated in 1905, at the age of 23, and served as worshipful master in 1912. In 1965 he received the gold emblem award of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania for fifty years' service as a Mason. Plans are being made by the officers of the Lodge to honor Boyer at his home in Tamaqua at a later date.

Theodore M. Hatter, past master, was received as district deputy grand master of the 50th Masonic District in an informal visitation. The Lodge was also host to a number of visiting worshipful masters, past masters, and members of Masonic lodges in the area.

After the ceremonies, Raymond M. Williams, a member of the Lodge and State Fish Commissioner, gave a talk (illustrated by a color film) on Green Walk Trout Hatchery, the second largest commercial fish producer east of the Mississippi. Commissioner Williams, who has appeared before various groups with the film and lecture, phrased his talk so that it included the interests of sportsmen and non-sportsmen alike. The informative and entertaining features of his presentation were both geared to the enjoyment of all who were in attendance.

George O. Yetter and John S. Tucker, stewards, served a bar-becue-style buffet supper during the fellowship hour that brought the occasion to a close.

How Much Are You Worth?
Chances are you're worth a lot more than you think! In any event, it's an interesting picture to "draw"—and the best starting point for making the most of your money. So take a few minutes to figure out your worth. It will be useful to you in measuring how much headway you make from year to year. It will also help your full-service bank advise you on money matters or in making you a personal loan.

Here's An Easy Way To Find Out . . .

What You Own	What You Owe
your money. $	Unpaid bills $
Cash on hand $	Amount due on home mortgage $
Cash in savings and checking accounts $	Amount due on car $
Money owed to you $	Other debts and obligations $
Life insurance (cash value) $	TOTAL OBLIGATIONS
Current market value of stocks and bonds $
Current market value of your home $
Current value of your car $
Other assets (furniture, home appliances, etc.) $
TOTAL ASSETS	YOUR NET WORTH

It's a good idea to make this kind of financial checkup every year, particularly if you have specific goals in mind, such as a new car every three years—or a special trip next summer. You probably have long-term ambitions, too, such as college education for your children, a new house, or improvements to your present one. Knowing your net worth will tell you how close you are to each goal, as well as help you to achieve them. It also can assist you in planning your budget, by showing how much you should be spending and paying on debts—and how much you should be saving.

WHAT THE STREETS DON'T TEACH THEM THIS JAIL DOES!
HOUSE OF WOMEN

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

It was a great day in Monroe County and the 375 people attending the General Hospital's Expansion Campaign victory dinner were agreeing wholeheartedly with Arlie's jubilation: "You have shown that this is a good and pleasant place to live."

It is a wonderful feeling to have even a small share in such a successful undertaking. Looking over the crowd, with so many new faces among the familiar ones, I couldn't help thinking that if we could just keep this army mobilized, there isn't anything this county couldn't accomplish.

Moreover it was fun, too. Fred Waring was having lots of fun over Bob and Leonard Kranendonk's new status as father and grandfather, and the crowd adored them all.

I liked everything about the day, including the story of a most unusual Oiler-Wicks wedding. I'll bet Sue probably intended the sly pun on their names when she carried a lamp instead of a bouquet.

I liked the smell of the lilacs in the early morning. I liked the sight of the dogwood now blooming its head off in Prospect cemetery. And most especially I liked the fact that it was Friday and today I don't have to cover anybody's news stories except my own.

Rev. Waterhouse

REV. Howard Waterhouse will be in Stroudsburg, Sunday, at 7:30 p.m., to speak on the theme, "Unitarianism." He will be in the office of Dr. Perry Stearns, 1015 Congdon Ave., Stroudsburg.

Oiler-Wicks Wedding In Historic Church Keynoted By Lamps, Fads, Egg Tree

The historic Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Church, Echo Lake, Pa., was the setting for the afternoon marriage of Miss Sue Ellen Wicks, to Gary Edward Oiler, Duncannon, on April 7 at 2.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Wicks, of East Stroudsburg. Mr. Oiler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Oiler, of Newville.

Rev. Wesley Crowthers, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony assisted by Rev. Roger A. Rhuman, of the New Kensington Presbyterian Church. "For a background the high pulpit of the little Colonial church was flanked on either side with urns filled with rhododendron and forsythia. Each window held a lighted candle and green arrangements. To the small white pew doors were attached nosegays of white stock and blue vinca to mark the section for the kin.

Before the ceremony back-

Dear Abby

Wedding Etiquette

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that even the best educated people don't know enough to send the priest (or officiating clergyman) an invitation to the wedding breakfast, reception, dinner or any social function related to the wedding? I have seen this happen so many times it isn't even funny. The very last minute they send word that the clergyman is "expected" to attend these affairs and are insulted if he isn't available. Parishioners do the same thing at Christmas, New Year's and Easter.

WONDERING WISCONSINITE

DEAR WONDERING: I don't know why this "oversight" is so commonplace, but perhaps after this item appears there will be fewer "sins of omission."

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day and notice that some women complain because their husbands—

1. Stay out all night
2. Beat them
3. Gamble away the paycheck
4. Drink too much
5. Use abusive language
6. Never take them anywhere
7. Never show them any affection

How lucky these women are whose husbands have only one, two or three of these faults. My husband has all of them.

Sincerely,

BURT'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Now, I'd like to hear from Burt.

DEAR ABBY: Print this for the mother-in-law who criticized her daughter-in-law for saying, "My children, my home, etc." Many mothers are blind where their sons are concerned. A husband who spends no time with his children and does nothing to help blame his wife for referring to her children and home as "mine."

"PULLING THE LOAD ALONE" DEAR ABBY: On Friday, December 29th, one of my twin daughters was sledding. She went down a hill and hit a chain the city had put up to protect the grass. She died in ten minutes.

Now one of my neighbors keeps telling me that if I had not bought that sled my daughter would still be living. It was bad enough that my daughter died in my arms, but to keep hearing this neighbor saying this is driving me out of my mind. Print whatever you wish of this letter, but please give me some comfort and advice.

MRS. L. S.

DEAR MRS. L. S.: The first thing you must do is to quit seeing this neighbor, if you have to close your door in her face. God gives us our children and He takes them away. Believe this, Mrs. L.S., and you will have the peace of mind you seek.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Dilworth Is Endorsed By William Green

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — U. S. Rep. William J. Green Jr., chairman of the Philadelphia Democratic Party, Wednesday night endorsed the state party's choice of Richardson Dilworth for governor.

The endorsement, made at the party's Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, was Green's first public mention of Dilworth since the state organization over-rode Green's objections and picked the former Philadelphia mayor as the gubernatorial candidate several months ago.

It was also the first time the two had met this year at a public political affair. They sat together at the head table, Gov. David L. Lawrence between them.

Green had been outspoken in his opposition to Dilworth, dubbing him a "can't-win candidate."

But as a smiling and affable master of ceremonies, Green referred to Dilworth as "capable... experienced... a truly great candidate."

Dilworth acknowledged the introduction with "those are mighty nice words to hear."

It was the first time the party's four statewide candidates had come together for a political appearance.

Lawrence described the current Democratic organization ticket as the best the Democrats or any other party has put together this century.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania said Thursday President Kennedy plans to attend the closing session of the annual governors conference at Philadelphia's Independence Hall July 4 and make a speech.

The first royal guest of New Orleans Mardi Gras was the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, who attended the celebration in 1872.

Jaipur Lays Reputation On The Line

By JOHN CHANDLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Jaipur, the key colt in the 3-year-old championship picture at the moment, lays his reputation on the line against eight rivals Saturday in the $50,000-added Withers Mile at Aqueduct. He'd better have his running shoes on, for there's more speed in the Withers than has been seen in many years.

Of the nine in the 87th running of this famed event, none appeared last week in the Kentucky Derby, but six are eligible for the Preakness next Saturday at Baltimore. They include Greentree Stabl's Cyano and Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Green Ticket.

Jaipur, owned by George D. Widener, will be ridden by Willie Shoemaker, and is the even money favorite. The dark bay son of Nasrullah thrashed Sunrise County, Admiral's Voyage, Mister Pitt, and Prego among others April 7 in the Gotham Stakes at Aqueduct, on a sloppy track.

Several days later Jaipur came down with a bruised foot and trainer Bert Mulholland says the colt is fit again. Widener never entered Jaipur in the Derby and is aiming for the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes June 9.

The Gotham was his only start this season. If he handles his Withers rivals as handily, Jaipur could be the Preakness favorite over Decidedly, the Derby winner.

The probable second choice at 5-2 is Charles W. Engelhard's Nassau Hall, to be ridden by Manuel Ycaza, Cyano, 4-1 with Braulio Baeza, is unbeaten in three races, Eric Guerin rides Green Ticket, listed at 6-1.

Others entered are J. W. Rodgers' Duc d'Or, Emil Dolce's Grid Iron Hero, Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Daddy R., Tartan Stable's Western Warrior, and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Lucky Uncle. All carry 12 pounds.

With nine starters, the Withers will gross $59,600 with $38,740 to the winner.

In addition to Jaipur, Green Ticket and Cyano, those eligible for the Preakness are Duc d'Or, Grid Iron Hero and Daddy R.

Bangor Upsets PA; Cavs Lose

THE Lehigh-Northampton League reverted back to its hot pace again yesterday as Pen Argyl was upset by Bangor 9-6 and Hellertown clipped East Stroudsburg 10-5.

The topsy-turvy league action again placed Pen Argyl and Hellertown in a tie for first as East Stroudsburg dropped to third position.

Frank Kelchner's grand slam homer in the fifth inning broke a 4-4 tie to power the Hellertown

District XI Golf To Open At Glen Brook

FIFTEEN schools, composing 43 golfers, will tee off at 8 a.m. Monday in the District XI golf tournament at Glen Brook Country Club, Stroudsburg.

Never in its 14 years has the interest been as high as it is this year. The 36-hole medal play will be staged with the following schools in competition:

Stroud Union, East Stroudsburg, Easton, Hellertown, Catsaqua, Palmerton, William Allen High, Liberty High, Lansford, Dieruff, Emmaus, Southern Lehigh, Hazleton, Wilson and Parkland.

The golfers will be seeking four positions and two alternates for the state tournament which will be held at state college.

Tabbed as good choices are last year's third and fourth place winners. The top two golfers in the tourney have graduated.

Winner last year was Howard Hinkley of Hellertown 40-40 who won the playoff over Walter Bachman of Wilson Boro who had 39-41-50. Two boys tied for low medal at 81. They were John Lincini of Dieruff High 40-41-81, who won the playoff for third over David Bartholomew of Bethlehem 43-38-81.

Lincini and Bartholomew rate as the boys to beat in the tournament.

In fifth place last year was Dick Fisher of Liberty High with 41-41-82 and in sixth was Frank Olander of Hazleton with 38-45-83.

EAST Stroudsburg State whacked New Palitz (N.Y.) State Teachers College 14-0, combining 11 hits with seven New Palitz errors.

Four ESSC hurlers took part in the action but Tom Barrow got credit for the victory. He is now 1-1.

Ron Hoyda, Warrior catcher, connected for the only homer of the game. The blast came with one man on.

Barrow, Barry Slemmer, Bob Butterworth and Billy Lewis combined to hold the visitors to two batsmen.

Shortstop Tom Rider, a senior, collected two singles in three trips. He also scored two runs and collected one RBI.

With the exceptions of the first inning, the charges of coach George Ockershausen rolled unrelentingly to the win. The crew gathered 3 in the second; 2 in third; four in the fourth; 3 in the fifth and 2 in the sixth.

Youth Fitness Program Is Outlined

By Joyce L. Murray,
Sec'y., Monroe County Assn.
for Health, Physical Education, Recreation

NEVER before in the peace-time history of our country has our profession and others been so fitness conscious. The increased emphasis began about seven years ago. But this, by no means, is a new issue of concern. As early as 1888, during its first annual meeting, the American Medical Association was primarily concerned with the fitness of Americans. A standing committee was appointed at that time whose duties were to establish standards and to protect the public's health and fitness. Every generation has complained about the lack of physical fitness of its youth. What makes it so different now? One reason is that its' being emphasized during peacetime. Secondly, the appalling results as revealed in recent research studies have shown that there is a definite national need for improved fitness.

You have heard and read many definitions of physical fitness, but no matter how complex it sounds, it all boils down to one meaning — being able to live effectively from day to day with the ability to meet emergencies as they arise. Physical fitness means honest-to-goodness living, getting more out of your own personal life and contributing more to those in your surroundings.

All-Time Low
There are many schools of thought as to why the physical fitness level of our American citizenry has reached such an all time low. Some parents blame the physical education program — the physical education teacher blames the administrator — the administrator blames the school board — and the school board blames the parent. No one group or individual is responsible. We all are — and therefore we must all work together to raise the physical fitness level. Where do we begin?

Parents must start the promotion with the pre-school child. Encourage him to walk, to run, to climb trees, to play on the jungle gym and to ride his bicycle. During these early years their habits and patterns begin to take form and improvement which might take place after they enter school is dependent to a large part on their physical attainments, mental attitudes, desires and drives fostered at this time. It has been said "The body houses the mind, the emotions and all the physical equipment for life". Make it a special point to see that your child is well equipped to live.

Teachers Assist
The second group of people to aid this program is the elementary teachers. The elementary school years are the next step in the period of the child's physical development. As classroom teachers we must demand good posture and should give some strengthening and stretching exercises. This can be done the old-fashioned way — right at the desk — three to five minutes at a time and about three times daily. Exercises need not be difficult — but should be vigorous. Use your influence to get your children to walk and run and play hard during their recess periods.

Now we come to the third group of people — the physical education teachers — whom your child meets in the majority of cases, when he reaches 7th grade. We, in the profession, must be enthused about a fitness program and must believe in what we are teaching. Students must be given an incentive to want to improve their physical fitness status. The physical education teacher must set an example — by keeping fit himself. We cannot have a lackadaisical attitude and feel as one such teacher said to me, "I'm so tired of physical fitness I could sleep." If we reach that point, how can we expect cooperation from others?

National Program
With backing and support from the next group — the administrators — a really effective physical fitness program can operate. Administrators are interested, but many times their hands are tied because of scheduling problems, number of teaching stations available and number of personnel. At a recent meeting of the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City, they passed the following resolution:

"The Association urges school administrators and boards of education throughout America to give leadership to the process of developing a well-balanced educational plan in which provision for physical fitness is appropriately related to the total educational program." Administrators must be as concerned about the physical education program in their schools as they are about the English program. They must be concerned about whether the program is meeting the needs of the students and the community. They must be concerned about sufficient time allotment, facilities, and class size.

Who is next on the physical fitness promotional program? The answer is the school boards. These governing bodies have as one of their many responsibilities the development of a program of school health and physical education with emphasis on physical fitness. Way back in the early part of the century the Seven Cardinal Principles of Education were drawn up. One objective was the development of good health and physical efficiency. Even though the title of these objectives has changed to the Needs of Youth, health and physical fitness is still listed. From an educational publication "The Central Purpose of American Education comes this statement: "An adequate physical basis for intellectual life must be assured". School boards must institute programs of physical education in the elementary schools which will offer programs that honestly and properly condition bodies. They must be continued in the secondary schools through allotting additional time, reducing class sizes and hiring more trained personnel.

Need More Facilities
Until such time when more facilities, time and personnel can be made available, we might have to call on the parents for assistance in the way of a supplementary program of fitness at home. Most parents want to help their children develop strong bodies, but confusion might exist as to what activities they should present and how much to expect of the child. Physical Education teachers could outline activities, giving the values of each, and then mimeograph copies to send home with each student. This could serve a two-fold purpose. If the students, encouraged by their teachers and parents, practice the suggested activities at home, it not only will increase their physical fitness, but it will also enhance the physical education program. It might even get parents interested in an exercise program. Remember Dad, five minutes daily of vigorous exercise is better than an occasional two hour stint of golfing, hunting, or bowling which only leads to pain, stiffness and discouragement.

This task of rebuilding American bodies demands full support of teachers, parents, administrators, school boards, interested citizens, and a sincere desire to improve on the part of the American school youth himself. With concerted action on the part of all and the concern shown by our federal and state governments, a national program for health and physical fitness can be assured. So, to all I say — for the sake of every child in your care — and even more important — the future of America — take on just one more job. Help to raise the physical fitness of our citizenry to a desired level and then do all in your power to keep it there.

Newf'land Is Cite For Convention

NEWFOUNDLAND — Sterling District Sabbath School Association's 56th annual convention at the Moravian Church Sunday night, will feature a film, "Africa On the Bridge," the story of Billy Graham's historic 17,000-mile "Safari for Souls" across Africa.

Photographed in authentic sound and natural color in 17 principal cities across Africa, the film shows "The Awakening Giant" during a transition period, on the bridge between ancient tribalism and the shining goal of independence from colonial rule.

During this significant period, Billy Graham was accorded an unprecedented welcome by Africans ranging from chiefs of state down to the general population of bush, desert and jungle. Exciting pagan rites and ceremonies, featured along with some of the most remarkable big game footage ever filmed, will highlight the film.

Designated as the 1961 Religious Film of the Year, "Africa on the Bridge" is a tribute to the missionaries whose years of faithful labors were in a large measure responsible for the spiritual harvest experienced by Billy Graham.

Registration for the convention will begin at 7:15 p.m., followed by the business meeting. A song

Ribicoff Calls For AMA Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff called Wednesday for the American Medical Association to quit "hurling silly charges" at him and "make up its mind about the doctors' revolt in New Jersey."

Ribicoff's statement was a reply to charges by Dr. F. J. L. Blasingame, AMA executive vice president, that publication last week by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of a booklet on the health care of the aged was a violation of laws against lobbying with public funds. Blasingame contended the booklet lobbied for the President's proposal for health insurance for the aged through social security. He asked for an investigation by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
